

Hi,

My name is Jason Burns. I'm a veteran of the U.S. Army Engineer Corps, independent researcher, and child rights activist.

I'm spreading this message this way because despite the great impact this problem has on society, circumcision is not exactly dinner table or social media feed appropriate.

It's my belief that as we progress as a society that children should have more rights than less. I believe that the great reset is a great time to eliminate child genital mutilation given that this small change can have enormous positive effect on the world. Where love is love, child genital mutilation cannot exist. We have the data. It's time to end it.

If you support this message, please share it with others, or if you would like me to continue this work, you can put some wind in my sails with the link at the bottom.

Sincerely and All the Best,
